Addresses PTA

Parent-Teachers Association of Christ Episcopal Day School held its October meeting Monday with Mrs. Lewis Wagner presiding.

Speaker for the occasion was Pat Bartram Baron, whose address was entitled "Don't Tell Them Stories." Mrs. Baron stressed the value of story-telling as a potent educational device as well as sheer pleasure for children, and emphasized the importance of using material and vocabulary that cause the young to reach forward into the unfamiliar. Too often, she said, parents underestimate the intelligence and ability of a child.

The matter of understanding stories and tell them a tale on the "Peter Rabbit" level when the child is actually grasping the excitement and unknown situations of "The Hound." She advocated also the use of story-telling records and action tales in which the story is participated with appropriate motions and sound-effects.

These young men and women, coming from all over Mississippi to the Jackson Medical Center campus, will be prepared to answer questions asked by the folks from their home towns and counties who attend the dedication and join in the open house tours.

SOUTHERN TO MEET HAMMOND LIONS SAT.

Mississippi Southern's footballers go revenge-hunting for the second straight week Saturday night as they meet the Southeastern Louisiana College Lions at Hammond.

The Southerners walloped North Texas State's Eagles 20-0 last week to avenge a 15-7 defeat in 1964.

They dropped a 13-7 decision to Southern last year and would like nothing better than to get revenge in the Lion's own backyard.

Southern goes into the game with a record of having won 21 of its last 24 games, including last year's perfect 9-0 mark and four straight wins this year.

The Lions have beaten North Louisiana (40-0), Southwest Louisiana (20-0), Louisiana College (27-7) and Tampa University (18-7).

The Southerners carry a 2-1 record into the fray.

FORESTRY NOTES

By MARION PARKER
Area Forester

Fire Prevention Week began Oct. 8 through 14. Not only through this week but every week we should prevent fires. Fire is one of our worst enemies, and we can only do away with it through your help. Every fire hurts you!

Let's protect our woods, homes and other things which are vital to us, which could be destroyed by fire if carelessness takes a hand.

There wasn't a single fire in Hancock County during the month of Sept. Let's try and keep it this way.

Have you ever thought of how vital forest fires affect you? You do not have to own a single acre of forest land to feel this effect. The loss is more personal when you do.

Central PTA To Sponsor Movie

Bay Central Parent Teachers Association will sponsor a picture show Thursday afternoon, Oct. 27 at the A & G Theatre. The main feature will be "Bowery to Bagdad," and there also will be two comedies, "Streetcar Named Sylvester" and "Income Tax Sappy."

Horatio Favre, manager of the A & G, is donating these pictures to the PTA. He will run two shows during the afternoon, one starting at 1:15 and another at 3:15.

Tickets are now being sold by students at Bay High School. Admission will be 25c for children and 40c for adults.

JITNEY JUNGLE STORE TO CELEBRATE 6th ANNIVERSARY

Everyone is invited to attend the 6th anniversary celebration of the Jitney-Jungle store located at Main and Second St.

According to J. R. Scharff, popular Jitney-Jungle owner and manager, the store will feature unusual anniversary bargains day after day throughout a whole week of celebration.

"In this way every one visiting the store from Oct. 13 to Oct. 19 will celebrate with us by receiving presents in the form of food bargains at special anniversary savings," Scharff declared.

For the 6 years this Jitney-Jungle has been in operation here it has served local housewives by providing daily food bargains to help them in preparing wholesome, nutritious meals the year 'round.

The local store is part of the Jitney-Jungle system of self-service food stores founded more than 30 years ago by W. B. McCarthy of Jackson. The basic idea on which the system was founded was to offer the finest foods available at greater savings through mass purchasing power and the cash and carry principle. The system has never departed from that idea and its acceptance is proved by the growth of the Jitney-Jungle system from 4 stores in 1919 to an organization made up of independent merchants operating more than 250 stores in 11 southern states.

Jitney-Jungle stores are home-owned and home-operated. The owners are local citizens, participating in local and state affairs, paying their share of taxes and taking active part in the social, civic and religious life of their respective towns.

Insofar as possible, Jitney-Jungle stores buy in the local markets and feature the products of nearby farmers and truckers. This many lovely gifts and a most enjoyable evening was shared by all those present.

Up until Wednesday of this week young Bert Courroge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Courroge of Lakeshore lot 10, known in WaveLand that he was looking for four little pigs who had strayed away from home.

The mother and eight shoats decided to take a walk and either forgot to return or found the many pecans on the ground in WaveLand so appetizing that they had no intention of returning. Fortunately, on Monday, Bert and his friends, David Stoufflet and Clifford LaFontaine, found the mother and four piggies on Bordages Lane and amidst the most ear piercing pig screams heard in this vicinity in many years the mother and the baby four were caught.

But like Little Bo Peep's sheep, four were still listed among the missing. This was going to be a little story drawing on our reader's sympathy to be on the lookout for four lost pigs, but Bert called us today and the four strays have been found and returned to the fold.

At any rate it's a story with a happy ending.

Bay High has achieved another first. This is a combination of world, national and school news, the latest in sports, and the weather report, all to be broadcast to the entire school twice a week over the public address system during the school's activity period.

The news broadcasters will come from Mrs. Hall's journalism class, members of Mr. W. H. Bounds' science class who will give the weather reports, and the coaching staff, who will select a sports reporter. Different students will alternate at each program.

The first broadcast was Monday, Oct. 10 during the activity period. Peggy Smith, journalism student, related the school and world news; Richard Miles, science student, gave the weather report, and Hugo Favre, football player, presented the latest in sports.

The second program was Thursday, October 13. Carol Horton, journalism student, gave the news; Eleanor Bufkin, science student, weather; and Henry Monti the sports.

Purpose of the news program is to inform students and faculty of news and sports happenings around school. The weather program will tend to interest students in school activities.

By alternating speakers, students who have difficulties in speaking may overcome them.

On October 11, a democratic general election was held in the Bay High auditorium and the following students were elected as Sophomore class officers for the school year 1955-56. Eugenia Geiger was named president, Phyllis Arnold vice president, Donald Byrd Secretary-treasurer and Janice Bankston reporter.

The "Wind" that flamed a new era for the Gulf South

In 1870, an ice plant in Shreveport, Louisiana, drilled 985 feet searching for artesian water... only to find it was too salty to use. Later a watchman spotted what he called a "wind" coming from the mouth of the well. He struck a match and flame shot upward. It was natural GAS! Gas from the well was piped to the ice plant where it furnished light for many years.

This was the unheralded birth of a new era for this part of the country... the natural gas era that was to lift the Gulf South in later years to its spot as brightest star on the industrial horizon. Today, as a citizen of the Gulf South, you have every right to be proud of the progress made by the oil and gas industry and its important role in helping the industrial south to grow. It's a great place to live and work... let's keep it that way.

THIS WEEK in Farm Bureau

President Eisenhower's heart attack set off a good measure of speculation as to the next presidential campaign, and already the dropping farm price crisis has been offered as a major issue in the campaign. While both political camps are gathering ammunition, perhaps it is timely to point out a very basic fact about one of the farmers' own organizations—the Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau is non-partisan. It is the largest farm organization in the world. In its 36 year history the American Farm Bureau Federation has worked with farm problems. There's nothing new about declining farm prices. We have them every time we produce more than we need and can sell to somebody else.

It is a matter of record that our present cotton price support program which was developed to help remedy "declining farm prices" came from the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation in the grassroots manner of policy development characteristic of Farm Bureau. The proposal earned the Farm Bureau Federation. With this national support the price support program for cotton was enacted into law.

Despite the unquestionable success of farmers democratically arriving at the solution to their problems, there have always been those who are now, and there always will be those people who take a pessimistic viewpoint and who are ready to quit their responsibilities and climb on a blaring bandwagon to socialism and, ultimately, communism.

For political groups now to seize upon farm prices as a national political whipping boy is repugnant to every thinking farmer. A purpose of Farm Bureau is to remove farm problems and programming from strict government surveillance. Farm Bureau believes in a farm program developed by farmers in the interest of efficiency, the national welfare, and the right of the individual to determine his crops, acreages and yields through personal initiative and competitive business principles.

Farm Bureau's consistent opposition to "governmentism" was recognized significantly years ago when it fought bulldoggedly against the Brannan Plan for subsidized agriculture with agricultural policies made freely in Washington. Farm Bureau caused defeat of that plan, yet, it apparently was interred in a shallow grave indeed. Today the ghost of that plan is walking the land reeking a following. So it is that we need to take a re-viewing look at what constitutes the American way.

Soon the political camps will be pitched. Each, as usual, will develop platforms that they contend will just benefit the nation. As each of us go to our respective camps, it is well to remember that neither party can in any real sense be considered a substitute for farmers' own organization when it comes to solving farm problems.

Farm prices will improve when some of our surpluses are removed. Farm profits will increase as farm costs are diminished. When national legislation is needed to help accomplish this dual job, it can best be obtained by a strong national organization of farmers.

Yes, Farm Bureau, with over a million and a half of the most literate American Farm families as its constituency, has the ability to best restore better farm prices in keeping with the standards we have achieved in the United States.

Striving to once again be the first state in the nation to reach its annual membership quota, the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation—through its 82 county organization—this month is kicking off the 1956 membership drive for 50,000 farm family members. For the past four years the Mississippi Federation has been the first state in the nation to complete its proportionate quota with the national organization.

Boswell Stevens of Macon, president of the state group, announced that a number of counties this year have adopted "one-day campaign" for their county membership quotas. County quotas are based on the number of farmers living in a county.

Describing Farm Bureau membership as the "backbone of our organization" Stevens announced in campaign literature that the farmer has problems and the Farm Bureau organization is the best means of reaching a solution to the many problems of modern farming.

Stevens described Farm Bureau as an organization of farmers, run by farmers to do what farmers want done.

"This includes anything from passage of pieces of legislation affecting agriculture to rural zoning laws to improve the rural way

SANDS TO PLAY AT MISS. STATE GAME

Free admission to the North Texas State-Mississippi State football game, and a chance to see and hear one of the biggest bands ever assembled in the South—these are two of the treats in store for high school students who show up for High School Day activities at State College on October 29.

Band director W. Thomas West said he has invited all high school bands of Mississippi to see the game as guests of the college, and to join the Maroon Band in putting on a gigantic halftime show now being planned.

Invitations for all high school students to attend the annual event have been mailed to school superintendents of the state.

West said high school bands planning to participate in the event are expected to arrive on the campus in time for a 10 a.m. rehearsal, when they and the Maroon Band will be welded into the colossal musical unit that will perform that afternoon.

"The rehearsal will end promptly for tours of the campus, getting by at 11:15, leaving plenty of time for lunch, and seeing friends before the game begins at 2 p.m." West said.

A special section of the football stadium will be reserved for the bands.

West and three visiting bandmasters will take turns in leading the massed band. Victor Zajec, director of the Philadelphia High School Band and president of the Mississippi Music Educators Association; Houston Jenks, director of the Meridian High School Band and a vice president of the MMEA; and Robert Work, director of the University High School Band and a vice president of the MMEA.

The massed bands will form giant formations on the field in addition to playing such numbers as "Dixie," "Hail State," and State's alma mater, "Maroon and White."

A LUCKY MOVE

Portsmouth, Va.—W. C. Vaughan walked from behind the counter in his market just as something which sounded like a pistol shot caused him to duck. An 18-inch piece of metal, believed to be part of an aerial from a plane, crashed through a 2-inch asphalt roof and fell just where Vaughan had stood.

Sometimes we wonder why the season isn't called summer instead of fall.

Our effectiveness in the state and national legislatures is dependent upon the number of people we represent, he added, and because of Mississippi's dependence upon agriculture as the major source of livelihood, it is important that not only farm families but all Mississippians support the 1956 Farm Bureau drive.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

BY HOWARD F. SIMMONS
Hancock County Agent

Clover Planting and Management
Two methods of getting back volunteering stands of clover in high sods are to graze the area down close, or to use the mowing machine to get off the grass. If the grass you remove is good, stack it or bale it for hay.

Don't plan to have clovers on more than one-fourth to one-third of your pasture acreage. This will be all you'll need. Then you will still have three-fourths to two-thirds of your sod land left for frosted grass grazing.

Many areas will need replanting to clovers. Use the ASC program and replant at the recommended seeding rate per acre. Do not sow clover seed in high sod.

Volunteering winter peas will come through heavy sods. However, if they are being replanted, or planted for the first time, do not sow the seed in the sod ground in high sod. Get the sod off and drill in the peas. The seed will be a good machine for this.

Winter peas are recommended for planting in Bernards and Johnson grass sods.

If you plan to plant cover this month in a cereal and the cereal still has not been planted, plant them at the same time. If you have oats or wheat that was planted in September and want to get clover in it, graze the cereal down and either drill the clover seed or sow it on top of the ground.

Tractor Care

Make that extensive farm tractor last longer. As soon as you are through with it for the season, give it a thorough check-up. Make a list of all needed parts and order them. Give the tractor a complete lubrication job. Clean all parts thoroughly. Protect the radiator. If you plan to continue to use the tractor during the winter, put anti-freeze in the radiator. If you are going to store the tractor, drain the radiator. If it is to be stored, jack it up off the ground and put it under shelter.

Hog Production

The long-time hog outlook appears favorable. On the short time basis, hog production like any other farm enterprise, has its ups and downs. But with population constantly increasing, meat consumption will also increase.

Mississippi is still in a deficit hog production area. Mississippi packers import most of their hog supplies from out of state. Here you can increase production to meet local demand.

Hog production is adaptable to just about any size farm and fits well with other farm operations. In producing hogs for market, efficiency is what counts. Plenty of home grown feed is a must. Sanitation is a prime consideration in profitable hog production.

For more information on producing hogs at a profit, see your local county agent and get a copy of Extension Publication 247, Hog Management.

Insect Control

Don't give boll weevils and other cotton insects food and a place to hibernate. As soon as you have picked out a cotton field, cut and shred the stalks. This removes much of the winter feed for the weevils and at the same time protects the soil from sheet erosion. Cutting stalks now will reduce the number of boll weevils going into hibernation and make next year's early season control easier. This is especially true in normal weevil "hot spots."

COWS IN CLOVER

Franklin, N. C.—Believing that contented cows produce the most milk, B. C. Enloe has soft music wafted into the milking barn from a number of speakers. The cow barn is surrounded by a white picket fence, bordered by flowers. So far there has been no noticeable increase in the milk output.

MISSISSIPPI OIL PROGRESS

go the exploring drills of Mississippi oilmen. Their discoveries of oil and gas reservoirs at depths of 10,000 to 12,000 feet have brightened prospects for expanded PRODUCTION of the vital minerals in Mississippi. The large-volume production which the drillers constantly seek is the key to . . .

FORESTRY DAY AT STATE FAIR OCT. 14

Friday, October 14, is forestry day at the Mississippi State Fair in Jackson, and all indications point toward it being one of the greatest days yet in the annals of Mississippi Forestry.

The annual Forest and Forest Products Parade, featuring many outstanding bands from throughout the state, should be bigger and better than ever before in its seven year history.

The state finals of the "Queen of the Forest" contest will again lend beauty and interest to the gala affair, with the climax of the colorful event to take place in front of the Governor's Mansion where the new State Queen of the Forest will be crowned.

Of special interest this year is an hour-long telecast of the entire parade and queen-crowning ceremony. It may be seen beginning at 10:30 a.m. over WLTB, Channel 3, Jackson.

The parade is again under the sponsorship of the Jackson Junior Chamber of Commerce and will be headed up by the snappy Ole Miss Rebel band. Other bands lending music, talent and entertainment will be Copiah-Lincoln Junior College, Hinds Junior College, Southwest Junior College, Holmes Junior College and Pica-yune High School.

Riding atop shiny convertibles will be 5 aspirants for the state "Queen of the Forest" title. They are: Miss Linda Martin of Calhoun City, Miss Johnnie Sue Harp of Route 1, Vicksburg, Miss Martha Faye Nowell of Kosciusko, Miss Betty Jo Thaxton of Seminary and Miss Carol Becknell of Brandon.

Showing beauty and poise which has already carried them to the top will be the present forestry queen, Miss Miriam Moody of Poplarville, Miss Mississippi, Carolyn Cochran of Lucedale, Travel Queen Mary Ann Mobley of Brandon and a former State Queen of the Forest, Miss Hospitality, Emily Hall of Leland and FFA Sweetheart, Miss Diane Smith of Indianola.

Judging the forestry queen contest will be Edd Reed, Executive Director of the Louisiana Department of Commerce and Industry, Baton Rouge; Mrs. Ida Clements, Fashion Editor of the Commercial Appeal, Memphis, and D. E. Birdsell of New Orleans, specialist in commercial fashion and photographic modeling and serving for the second time on the judging panel.

A total of 60 units will parade. In addition to those already named, there will be various and colorful forestry floats relaying the message of forestry conservation to the thousands expected to jam Capitol Streets for the mammoth spectacle.

If you want to see a raving beauty just look up the girl who won second place in a beauty contest.

TOO MANY HURRICANES

The appropriation of money for modern weather forecasting equipment and the installation of new radar stations at many weather stations, has certainly brought about better awareness and detection of hurricanes.

In fact, it may safely be said that residents of the East Coast have been kept in an almost constant state of jitter this year as the result of all the hurricane warnings.

Weather observers say the track of hurricanes which used to molest Florida has moved northward and now hurricanes seem to threaten the Virginia and Carolina shores more than the Florida coasts.

For many years homes in Florida have been constructed in special ways to aid in withstanding high winds, and if the hurricane track has moved northward five to seven hundred miles, it might be good for residents in that area to adopt the same practice.

MISS JOYCE LEE LANG BECOMES BRIDE-TUNE OF
MR. JESSE LEWIS COCHRANE

One of the early fall weddings claiming much interest locally was the marriage Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 11 at 3 o'clock of Miss Joyce Lee Lang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lang of this city to Jesse Lewis Cochrane, USAF, son of Mrs. A. L. Cochrane of Palmerton, Fla.

The ceremony took place in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church with the Rev. John Leonard officiating.

The church was artistically adorned with arrangements of white flowers, palms and white satin ribbons.

The bride was given in marriage in a double ring ceremony by her father. She wore a stunning gown of white silk satin, made with a full skirt of unpressed pleats which swooped into a graceful cathedral train.

The bodice of the dress was fitted and had a yoke of alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls. Self covered buttons fastened the back of the dress and also trimmed the long fitted sleeves which ended in cathedral points over the hands. Her veil of illusion was held to a tiara of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet centered with an exquisite white orchid surrounded with Stephanotis blooms.

The bride chose as her maid of honor Miss Marcia Artigues and as bridesmaid Miss Honorine Damborn. The little flower girl was Phyllis Scuzeneau. They wore identical gowns of silvered blue taffeta, floor length. Bias folds of the material fashioned the neckline of the fitted bodice. Small hats fashioned of the taffeta, and old fashioned bouquets of deep rose toned asters completed their costumes.

The bridegroom selected Manuel Perre of New Orleans as his best man and the groomsmen were Jack Cassidy, also of New Orleans. Organ music was played by Professor Joseph Hemmersbach, while "Ave Maria" was sung by Mrs. Theodore Thomas.

Immediately following the church ceremony a reception was held at Hotel Reed.

Mrs. Lang and Mrs. Cochrane received the guests in attractive fall ensembles. Mrs. Lang chose a changeable red and black taffeta, worn with black velvet hat and black accessories and Mrs. Cochrane wore a black crepe dress with black hat and black accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of cymbidium orchids in yellow to bronze shades.

A three tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and groom under a wedding bell centered the bride's table. White floral arrangements and lighted tapers in

TIDE POUNDS ROCKS

By TEDDY STECHMANN
The St. Stanislaus Rockaways battled fruitlessly against a heavier and stronger Picaune team to whom they lost their fifth game 27-7 at Picaune Friday night.

The first score of the game was made in the first quarter by Picaune on a pass from Polk to Samples. The extra kick was made by Beech. At the end of the first stanza, the score was 7-0.

In the second quarter Picaune scored again, this time on a quarterback sneak by Holcum. Beech, Picaune halfback, made the extra point kick, which ended the first half with the score at 14-0.

Halftime activities, consisted of both the St. Stanislaus and the Picaune bands making fine showings before the almost sellout crowd at the Picaune stadium.

The third quarter came and went without either team even coming close to scoring. But in the fourth quarter the action really began.

There were three scores in the final quarter, the first of which was made by Picaune on a one yard plunge by Holcum. The kick by Beech was good.

Then, finally, the Rockaways began to move. Their first and only score of the game was made by Billy Rhodes, star halfback for Stanislaus, on a thrilling gallop.

CAMPUS HERO

His parents were on hand to see him make the plays. They spent the week end in Chattanooga, Tenn., where McCallie school is located.
